LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A committee of the Arkansas Legislative Council was named Wednesday to study whether changes should be made in the law to increase revenues in the Constitutional and Fiscal Agencies Fund.

The fund takes 3 per cent of special and general revenues to finance the operation of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of state government, plus agencies such as the Revenue and Administration departments.

Marcus Halbrook, Legislative Council director, said increased demands on the fund had diminished balances in the account. He said the fund faced an estimated deficit of $108,000 this year.

The council staff suggested that the fund could be beefed up by increasing the percentage of special and general revenues the fund receives.

Among other suggestions was the transfer of some departments now operating under the fund to the general services account, where they would be supported from the normal distribution of general revenues.

Says Decision by WR Healthy for the GOPs

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Charles T. Bernard of Earle, state Republican party vice chairman and a candidate for the GOP chairmanship, said Wednesday that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's announcement that he would not accept the GOP chairmanship was "healthy" for the party.

In a letter to members of the GOP state Committee, Rockefeller renounced a movement to draft him as state party chairman.

Bernard said Rockefeller's move would be a "stepping stone for a comeback" by the party from the defeat it suffered in the general election.

Bernard said he considered governor's statement healthy because it cleared up "rumors" about Rockefeller's candidacy for the job—and Bernard said he considered a draft activity only as a rumor—and it showed that Rockefeller would be an active participant in party affairs.

"He is a fine man and has made a great contribution to the party and state," Bernard said of the governor.

IRS Offering Free Service to Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service, a stickler for accuracy, is offering to figure income taxes free for 30 million Americans, 3.6 million of whom fouled up their returns last year.

The IRS said Wednesday a taxpayer could qualify if he earns no more than $20,000 a year, takes the standard 10 per cent deduction rather than itemized deductions, and has income only from salaries, wages, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities.

In another move aimed at easing the pain of separating citizens from taxes the IRS unveiled a revamped standard tax return form—form 1040. This year the instructions on how to fill blanks are in a separate booklet, not on the back of the sheet where last year's aggravated form-fillers were forced to keep peeking.

Taxpayers who qualify for free figuring can simply fill out vital information about themselves, list their income, and send in the return, along with W-2 forms.

The government does the rest. If a taxpayer's withholding doesn't cover the amount owed, he will get a bill. If he's due a refund, that will be sent along.

If the taxpayer catches the government overcharging him, he could demand a refund, along with 6 per cent interest.

But if the government pays a taxpayer too large a refund the IRS could collect the overage, but no interest if the money was paid quickly.

In the past, the IRS offers to figure income tax had been extended to Americans making up to $5,000. It estimated 30 million qualify for free figuring under the new rules, but wouldn't guess how many will take advantage of the offer.

which has been setting price records this year, will be 113 pounds per person this year, up 2½ pounds from 1969, the report estimates.

Pork eaters will consume 65.4 pounds, only a fraction of a pound more than in 1969; veal will be down and lamb will hold even. Chicken, benefiting competitively from higher meat prices, is put at 41.7 pounds, up from 39 last year.

The report was the second in a recent series relating consumer food costs to what farmers are paid. Earlier the department said retail prices are expected to continue rising next year but that the farmer's share of the consumer food dollar will not.

Based on disposable income, consumers this year are expected to spend about 16.5 cents of each take-home dollar on food. This would be slightly less than in 1969 and continues a downward trend.

Although cautious, the report said consumers can expect "a large decline" in pork prices if middleman margins are brought in line with recent price cuts farmers have taken in the hog market.

AEA Group to Hear Bumpers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. elect Dale Bumpers will be the featured speaker at the legislative rally in Robinson Auditorium here Monday, kicking off the annual convention of the Arkansas Education Association.

The rally will marshal support for the AEA's program calling for a $30 million increase in the state's appropriation for public education.

Opponents of Farm Bill Maneuver

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate opponents of an administration-backed farm bill are maneuvering for a new round in a legislative battle that has ranged from a blocked Senate door to the White House to farm-belt ballot boxes.

The opponents claim the administration's bill would cost the nation's farmers more than a billion dollars in income by 1973.

Led by Sen. George McGovern, a Democrat from wheat-raising South Dakota, the group of 30 or more senators moved to pressure for House approval of a bill more akin to one first passed by the Senate.

The senators point to signs of farmer anger displayed at voting places in the Nov. 3 election. They raise the specter of no new farm programs at all if defenders of the administration-backed bill continue on what they term an "intransigent" course.

The McGovern forces hoped to convince the Senate to turn down the report of a House-Senate conference committee which wrote a compromise bill earlier this year after one of the stormiest sessions in memory.

This would send the bill back to conference and instruct conferees to stick to main provisions of the Senate-passed bill.

McGovern has ready an alternative bill repeating all the non-controversial sections of the new measure and continuing for a year provisions of present law tied to disputed items in the new bill.

Juvenile Court Referee was raised from $2,000 to $2,400 salary and a $1,200 expense account, the latter was not a budget item last year.

Besides the ambulance service other new items were $300 for maid service and $400 for children's service division of the Welfare Department.

NLR Police Protest Parole of Slayer

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, (AP) —About 50 off-duty North Little Rock policemen say they will go to Tucker Prison Farm Friday to oppose the parole of James Dean Walker, 30, of Reno, Nev.

Walker is serving a life term for slaying a North Little Rock patrolman, Jerrell P. Vaughan in 1963.

A clemency hearing for Walker has been set for 3 p.m. Friday at Tucker Prison Farm. Walker was turned down for parole last December.

The North Little Rock police under their Fraternal Order of Police chapter met Wednesday night to organize against Walker's parole.

"We don't feel that seven years is a sufficient penalty to pay for a first-degree murder charge regardless of whom the convicted person is or whom he

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ray Tollett of Nashville, who has testified that he made wiretapping devices for the Little Rock Police Department, charged Wednesday that Little Rock Chief of Police Gale Weeks was guilty of malfeasance and should be removed from office.

Tollett has filed suit in U.S. District Court at Texarkana to recover from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover what were identified as tape recordings involving Little Rock policemen.

Tollett's petition, filed Nov. 5, said the tapes had been presented to the FBI office at Little Rock Feb. 14 to support a voluntary sworn statement by Tollett that the Little Rock police were using illegal wiretaps and stolen tape recorders to record conversations from the wiretaps.

The petition listed six different tape recordings and asked that Hoover be directed to return the tapes to Tollett for his use as evidence in a civil suit he said he plans to file.

Asst. City Manager John E. Arnold confirmed that Tollett had met with him and made a "specific charge" against Weeks, but would not say what the complaint was.

Tollett issued a statement that said Weeks had denied that the Little Rock police were making illegal wiretaps. If Weeks' statement was true, Tollett said, the statement "makes me guilty of perjury."

"In four months Mr. Weeks has not charged me with perjury or even had his officers testify in rebuttal," Tollett said. He added that Weeks was guilty of malfeasance and should be removed from office.

mass murders did occur at My Lai on March 16, 1968.

Beardslee, a slender blond, said he went into May Lai with the third platoon and that as he approached the village he saw possibly 15 to 20 women and children.

Asked by Daniel if anyone was with the Vietnamese civilians, Beardslee replied: "Yes, American GIs."

Beardslee said later he came upon a group of Vietnamese bodies.

Q. Where were they in relation to the group you saw earlier?

A. They were in the same location.

Q. Can you describe those people?

A. They were women and children.

Q. What were they doing?

A. Nothing. They were dead.

Under cross-examination by George W. Latimer, Calley's soft-spoken civilian lawyer, Beardslee was asked if there was any evidence the dead could have been killed from helicopter gunships.

"It's a possibility," he said. "They were pretty well torn up."

Beardslee said he saw Haebler take pictures of the dead Vietnamese.

newsmen a high administration official outlined the administration's rationale, saying past aid to Cambodia already has helped the Vietnam war effort.

The official told newsmen three North Vietnamese divisions have been pulled out of South Vietnam and into Cambodia, and another was withdrawn from South Vietnam into south Laos.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, said after talking with Nixon he was willing to consider the President's proposal provided it would help speed withdrawal of American troops.

Fulbright said the Cambodia proposal looked to him like only the first installment of an aid program.

"It is essential that we supplement Cambodia's own efforts by providing resources which are critically needed to enable it to continue to defend itself," Nixon said. "Its ability to do so is a vital element in the continued success of Vietnamization."

The President asked for $70 million in economic support and $85 million in military assistance "to meet Cambodia's urgent needs" between now and next June 30.

Nixon also asked for $100 million to restore aid he said had been diverted to Cambodia from such accounts as Greece, Turkey and Taiwan.

About $52 million of the transfers had not been disclosed before.

The President asked for $65 million in additional aid for South Vietnam, saying it was needed to help maintain stability in an economy markedly affected by U.S. troop reductions.

the majority of legislators are concerned genuinely about prison problems and want to help, but adding:

"However, once again, the old guard element has reared its head in an effort to interfere in the routine operation of the executive department. We do not appreciate their sudden concern over the safety of our personnel. We have virtually begged them to provide the funds necessary to prevent placing our people in jeopardy. Except as required by federal court, they have been unresponsive."

"I will not tolerate Monday morning quarterbacking by an uninformed handful of old guard politicians whose sudden interest in our problems leaves me cold," Sarver said.

The commissioner said the state's prisons could not be operated "day-to-day by a few absentee legislators, which probably helps account for the constitutional separation of powers provision."

Sarver said the decision to request State Police assistance "in an internal problem" in the penitentiary was purely the responsibility of the executive department.

Turner said that it would seem that Sarver should "welcome any aid the State Police might give" in an investigation of the uprising. He said that it was apparent someone aided the prisoners during the uprising.

MRS. W.M. SPARKS

At Tuesday's meeting of Hope Kiwanis Club Mrs. W.M. Sparks showed movies and commented on pictures she had taken while she and her husband, Kiwanian Mitchell Sparks, were on a European tour.

In the summer of 1969 Mr. and Mrs. Sparks made a trip to their daughter, Mary Jean, and her family while they were living in London, England where their son-in-law was on assignment with one of our major oil companies. They were guests in England for about three weeks and spent a full two weeks on the European continent.

Though they traveled extensively on the continent, due to limited program time, her remarks were confined to two of the most beautiful countries they visited, Switzerland and Austria.

Mrs. Sparks discussed something of the government of these two countries and showed movies of some of the breath taking scenery to be found in the Alps as well as scenes from the countryside and the cities they visited.

Kiwanian Jim McKenzie arranged for Mrs. Sparks to give her program. Next weeks program will be in keeping with Kiwanis sponsored Farm-City Week which is celebrated each November. Another outstanding program has been arranged for the Kiwanians and their Farm Friends, many of whom will be guests at next week's meeting.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. Henry Haynes, Mrs. Jim McKenzie, and Crit Stuart, Jr., all of Hope, and Jim Allen of El Dorado.

The legislator criticized Sarver for commenting on the resolution while apparently not knowing what it said.

"I don't think that he (Sarver) being out there in Oklahoma knew what the resolution was all about," Turner said. "If he did, he certainly would have welcomed it."

Major Change in Cabinet Is Predicted

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reported today that President Nixon plans a major reshuffling of his Cabinet by the time the second half of his term begins in January.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin are expected to leave, the newspaper said.

According to the report, Kennedy and Hardin are ready to depart amicably in favor of new faces. But it said Hickel, who criticized the administration's attitude toward young people, might not be willing to leave without protest.

Gabriel Hauge, president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., was mentioned as a likely possibility for the Treasury post. The Republican national chairman, Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, was said to be interested in succeeding Hickel.

The Times story also said the White House staff would take on a new look with the likely departures of presidential counselors Daniel P. Moynihan and Bryce Harlow and a change in jobs for John D. Ehrlichman, now a Nixon assistant.

THIS FAMILY THINKS WOMEN SHOULD WALK TEN STEPS BEHIND

Dear Helen: I'm afraid my parents, had they lived in ancient China, would have drowned me at birth, until like 1:30 a.m. Who can like a surplus kitten. They still think girl children are worthless.

My brother was always king, while I got the leavings. He never had to work. I practically supported myself all through high school. He was sent to the best college. I picked out a cheap state university, but was told I'd have to earn all my own way—so now I'm working full time, paying board and room at home, and saving toward my education.

My brother, who is 23 and has a job that pays twice as much as mine, still doesn't contribute even a can of beans to the family larder. Our folks even pay for his telephone bills and laundry.

At 16, he got his driver's license, and a car at 17. I still have no car. Can't afford it.

They think I'm dumb to insist on college. "After all, a girl can get married—she doesn't need the frills."

Just one thing they'll give me—a wedding. But they won't let me have that money for college. And there's a catch: I must be married—to a man they approve of—before I'm 25, or—necht.

I'll soon be 21. If I stay at home, I'll save more for college, but if I leave, I'll maybe save my sanity. Which? —NOT BITTER, BUT BURNING

Dear NBBB: Save your sanity. If you stay in this oppressive atmosphere who has been rumored to be leaving to prepare Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, would not do so for another year if at all, the Times account said.

much longer you'll lose the will to attend college! —H.

Dear Helen: I am 15, and a girl. My problem is this weirdo who lives next door. He's the most inconsiderate, spiteful person you'd ever meet.

He thinks he is hip because his car affects televisions and for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper. It actually breaks up the picture or sound. The noise it makes is enough to cave in your house walls. Honest, every time he starts it, my bedroom almost falls on top of me.

My parents refuse to do or say anything because they don't want to lose his parents' friendship. They are nice people, but they've just lost control of their son.

Picks Wolves to Lose in Playoff

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkadelphia, winner of 10 straight this season, and Rogers, riding a nine-game winning streak, meet at Arkadelphia Friday night in the semifinals of the Class AA state playoffs with the winner favored to take the title.

Arkadelphia, ranked No. 1 in AA, roared through its regular season schedule and then ripped previously unbeaten McGehee 34-7 in a playoff for the Region 4AA title.

Rogers, ranked No. 2 in AA, lost its opener to Class AAA Springdale and then zipped through its Region 1AA schedule. Rogers has scored 341 points, one more than the Badgers. Rogers also has a slight advantage in defensive statistics, permitting 39 points to 121 for Arkadelphia.

Quarterback Roger Gregory and fullback Allen Davidson, a 200-pounder with speed, are the big guns in the Rogers' attack. Gary Anderson, who scored three touchdowns against McGehee, speedster Luther Guinn and quarterback Bill Vinling give the Badgers a solid offensive thrust.

Rogers has seven players who go both ways while Arkadelphia twoplatoons and that could be the difference.

ARKADELPHIA 20, ROGERS 14.

The winner of the Arkadel-Rogers game will meet the winner of the Pine Bluff Dollarway-Stuttgart game for the Class AA title. Dollarway and Stuttgart meet Friday night at Stuttgart.

The Ricebirds captured the Region 2AA title with a 32-0 victory over Wilson Rivercrest while Dollarway made the semifinals with a 14-11 victory over Conway in the Region 3AA championship match.

The home field advantage and the Ricebirds' schedule add up to a Stuttgart victory.

Class A: Alma 14, Prescott 7; Marked Tree 19, Rison 13.

Class B: Norphlet 12, Luxora 7; Danville 27, Magnet Cove 20.

Others: North Little Rock 14, Little Rock McClellan 7; Little Rock Catholic 27, NLR North-east 14; Pine Bluff 20, Texarkana 13; Forrest City 13, Jacksonville 7; Benton 19, Little Rock Parkview 13 and Fort Smith Northside 27, Fort Smith Southside 14.

Rangers Hard on Kings of the Mountain

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Boston became king of the mountain in the National Hockey League East—until the New York Rangers knocked off some Kings of their own to join the Bruins at the top of the heap.

And in Toronto, Punch Imlach made a triumphant return and received a royal reception. Boston, employing its usual lightning attack, clubbed Minnesota 8-4 to vault over idle Montreal into first place. But several hours later in Los Angeles, the Rangers, who began the day in a second-place tie with the Bruins, kept pace with the Stanley Cup champions by downing the Kings 5-3.

Imlach, who coached the Maple Leafs to four Stanley Cup victories in 10 years before being fired in 1969, returned home as coach of the new Buffalo team and gleefully watched his Sabres destroy Toronto 7-2.

"We want Punch ... We want Punch!" most of the 16,342 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens screamed as the game ended and the object of their affection responded with a tip of his hat that brought the cheering crowd to its feet.

Former Leafs Gerry Meehan and Larry Keenan, with two goals apiece, and Floyd Smith, with a pair of assists, engi-

Injuries Are Hurting the Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Injuries to Cazzie Russell and Willis Reed have the New York Knicks in double trouble.

And the Philadelphia 76ers are taking advantage with Billy Cunningham in double figures.

With Russell and Reed on the shelf, Cunningham splintered New York with a 29-point performance to lead the 76ers to a 113-106 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night.

Russell, the team's super sub, is out for several weeks with a fractured wrist. Reed, their powerhouse center who led them to the NBA title last year, didn't make the current road trip. He's sidelined with a bad left knee and may miss two more games.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday night, Baltimore handed Cleveland its 19th defeat in 20 games, 111-98; Chicago spanked Cincinnati 128-107; San Francisco tripped Boston 90-89; Portland hammered Atlanta 146-131, and Milwaukee humbled San Diego 117-111.

In the American Basketball Association, it was Memphis 114, Pittsburgh 111; Floridians 128, Virginia 115; Kentucky 122, Carolina 112 and Indiana 119, Denver 114.

New York and Philadelphia were locked in a close duel; then Cunningham's field goal on a drive up the middle with 4:32 left gave the 76ers a 101-100 lead they never relinquished.

Hal Greer had 19 points and Bailey Howell, who scored 12 points in the fourth quarter, had 15 to assist Billy The Kid. Walt neered the romp.

Boston, snapping a rare two-game losing skein, battered the Minnesota net with 47 shots while the North Stars managed only 20.

Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge and Johnny Bucyk, with two goals apiece, paced the Bruins' rout while Bobby Orr and Don Awrey notched three assists each.

New York's Jean Ratelle slammed home an unassisted goal—his second tally of the night—just 48 seconds into the third period to put the Rangers in front for the first time and Rod Gilbert locked up the victory with a marker midway in the final frame.

Dave Balon also scored twice for New York—once when Kings goalie Denis DeJordy accidentally knocked the puck into his own net—and Bob Berry clicked twice for Los Angeles.

A-State Still Rated Best in AP Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — The top four college division football teams—with Arkansas State heading the list—retained their positions in The Associated Press poll but there was plenty of action behind the leaders.

Arkansas State's Indians, with a perfect 9-0 record, garnered seven of the 15 first-place votes by the nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters and amassed 256 points in the balloting announced Wednesday.

Runner-up Montana, 10-0, received four first-place votes and 227 points and North Dakota State, 8-0-1, collected 185 points although receiving no first-place nominations.

Holding out fourth was Tampa, 9-0, with 154 points while Tennessee State, 8-0, moved up one spot to fifth with 136.

Wofford leapfrogged from ninth to sixth place, followed by four newcomers to the Top Ten—Texas A&I, Eastern Kentucky, Abilene Christian and Wittenberg.

Tampa, Wofford, Texas A&I and Eastern Kentucky each received one first-place vote. Dropping out of the Top Ten were Southwest Louisiana, falling into a tie with St. Olaf, for 11th; Western Kentucky, down to 13th; Delaware, tied with Westminster, Pa., for No. 16, and Southern Illinois, which fell completely out of the Top 20.

The remaining teams in the Top 20 were No. 14 Eastern Michigan; No. 15 Jacksonville, Ala.; State; No. 18 Grambling; No. 19 Alcorn A&M, and No. 20 Edinboro, Pa.

The Top Twenty teams, with first place votes in parentheses and total points on a 20-18-16 through 1 formula:

4. Tampa (1)	154
5. Tennessee State	136
6. Wofford (1)	109

16. Delaware	35
17. Westminster, Pa.	35
18. Grambling	34
19. Alcorn A&M	31
20. Edinboro, Pa.	24

Frazier led New York with 24 points.

Kevin Loughery came off the bench to score 11 points in the second quarter and finished with a team-high 20 points for Baltimore. Bobby Smith's 26 led the Cleveland offense.

Chet Walker scored 27 points, Bob Weiss, 25 and Jerry Sloan, 20 as Chicago bullied the Royals. The Bulls were up 58-53 at the half and poured in 17 straight points at the start of the second half.

Jeff Mullins scored 30 points and Jerry Lucas had 28 for San Francisco. Boston never had the lead, although the Celtics closed to within one point three times in the closing minutes.

Portland overcame a 20-point Atlanta lead with a 38-point third quarter to beat the Hawks. Lou Hudson had a big night for the losers with 49 points.

Lew Alcindor's three-point play with a minute left triggered Milwaukee's victory over San Diego, the Bucks' 12th in 13 starts. Alcindor scored 25 points, 19 in the first half, although sitting out much of the game with four personal fouls.

No Tuneup for Clay, Insists Joe Frazier

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A brutal fighting machine with compassion—that's Joe Frazier.

But the heavyweight boxing champion of the world doesn't let his soft heart interfere with his hard punch. The only things that interfered with his punch in their heavyweight championship fight Wednesday night were Bob Foster's body and head.

It took Frazier just 49 seconds of the second round to knock out the light heavyweight king before 6,300 persons in Cobo Arena, plus a closed-circuit television hookup in the United States and 27 foreign countries.

Frazier sent his lanky challenger to the canvas twice with vicious left hooks to the body and head. The first time Foster took a nine count but Frazier moved in quickly to finish it when Foster wobbled to his feet.

"I don't think the referee (Tom Brisco) should have let Bob come out that second time; Frazier said, his brown eyes looking compassionately at newsmen gathered in an interview room afterwards.

"He was down for eight or nine and when he got up he was tilting toward the referee," added the chunky fighter. "When the referee said come on out I had to or I'd be less than a champion. My job was to fight."

Foster said he didn't hear either the first or second count. He also said he didn't even know he was down a second time. After the second knockdown he lay on the canvas on his back for about five minutes. "I didn't realize I was in trouble until he caught me with a good left hook," said Foster, still clad in his blue velvet boxing trunks and blue robe.

Frazier Gets to Foster in 2nd Round

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Frazier is a deadly puncher like such great heavyweights as Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano but until he beats Muhammad Ali he will be a pretender rather than a king to boxing fans.

Frazier put his skills on display Wednesday night and was impressive as he knocked out light heavyweight champion Bob Foster in two rounds in his first title defense since he knocked out Jimmy Ellis last February.

But lacking was the daily increase in tension and the howling mob that usually makes attendance at a heavyweight championship fight a memorable experience.

Never did the fight excite the sporting public as did a fight like Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott or Ali's return to the ring against Jerry Quarry.

And a crowd of only 6,300—second to the Ali-Sonny Liston fight in Lewiston, Maine in 1965 as the smallest heavyweight title turnout in modern history—showed up at 12,500-seat Cobo Arena for the feature half of the closed-circuit television doubleheader. Unbeaten heavyweight George Foreman stopped Boone Kirkman in two rounds in the opener in New York's Madison Square Garden.

But the Frazier victory cleared another block to a fight that has surpassed the boundaries of the sports world in catching the fancy of people—a fight with Ali.

When asked if he considered the Foster fight a tune-up for Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, Foster said:

"I was ready for Foster as I would have been for Ma-Ma (a reference to Ali)."

"I'm not talking about any fights for about three weeks," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, who then mentioned New York, Houston and Philadelphia as possible sites for a Frazier-Ali fight which could be in February.

"We will get together and talk," said Durham who added, "He might want more money than I want and then there wouldn't be any fight."

"I want Joe Frazier," Ali shouted after watching the bout on closed circuit television in Atlanta where he defeated Quarry last month in his first fight since he was stripped of his heavyweight title for refusing induction into the Army.

"Clay's not gonna take the pressure that Joe's gonna put on him," said Foster.

Promoters feel that people want so much to see whether Ali can take Frazier's pressure or whether Frazier really is what his title says that a fight between the two would be the most lucrative in history—grossing up to $10 million.

The next block to the dream fight is Oscar Bonavena, the brawling Argentine who will fight Ali Dec. 7 in Madison Square Garden.

There also is the five-year prison sentence that went with Ali's conviction, a conviction which still is being appealed. The U.S. Supreme Court has been asked by the Justice Department to act on the appeal within the next 90 days.

Frazier's demolition job on Foster kept him from being the first light heavyweight champion to win the heavyweight crown. Seven previous light heavy champs tried unsuccessfully nine times for boxing's big prize.

It was three deadly hooks that smashed Foster senseless at 49 seconds of the second round.

"I slipped a jab and hit him with a left hook for the first knock down," said Frazier. "The second time I doubled up with the left hook to the body and to the head."

Foster got up at the count of nine after the first knockdown and it was obvious he was in deep trouble.

When Foster went down for the second time, referee Tom Brisco could have counted far past 10. In fact, Foster was still unsteady when his handlers helped him from the ring.

Frazier said he did get stung by a right hand, Foster's power punch, in the first round. "But I always get stung in the first or second round and then I go to work."

When Frazier did go to work, Foster's superior height and

McClard Near Another Nat'l Title

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of people have trouble spelling and pronouncing his name—but Davidson quarterback Mark Thompson has no trouble finding him.

Mike Mikolayunas of the Wildcats remained the NCAA pass-receiving leader for the second successive week, according to statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Mikolayunas has averaged 8.8 catches per game, totaling 70 in eight games for 909 yards and six touchdowns.

Runner-up Tom Gatewood of Notre Dame has averaged 7.9 receptions with 63 in eight games for 974 yards and seven TDs. Ernie Jennings of the Air Force leads in yardage and touchdowns with 1,229 and 17 respectively on his 69 catches in 10 games.

Arkansas junior Bill McClard, who set one major-college record last Saturday with his booming 60-yard field goal against Southern Methodist, is closing in on another mark.

His 73 points is just eight shy of the 5-year-old kick-scoring mark by Charley Gogolak of Princeton.

Washington's Jim Krieg remains the leading kickoff-return specialist with an average of 32.6 yards. Steve Holden of Arizona State tops the punt returners with a 19.3-yard average and Ohio State's Mike Sensibaugh has nabbed eight interceptions in seven games to lead that department.

reached him no good.

The 26-year-old Frazier packed 209 pounds on his 5-foot-11¼-inch frame as he scored his 23rd knockout in his unbeaten pro career of 26 fights.

For the 6-3½ Foster, who weighed 188, the heaviest of his career, it was his fifth loss in 46 fights and the fourth to a heavyweight.

Foster, 31, who said before the fight he would not defend his light heavyweight title again, said afterward:

"I've got to defend the light heavyweight title soon."

While Foster, who has successfully defended his crown four times, is through as a heavyweight contender, Foreman is very much in the picture, but his chance for the title probably won't come until Frazier and Ali settle their differences.

The sparse turnout at Cobo Arena paid a gross of $147,000. Frazier was guaranteed $150,000 against 40 per cent of all receipts. The fight was seen on closed circuit television at 110 locations, with 600,000 sets, in 91 cities in the United States and Canada and also was beamed to 27 other countries.

Foster's end was 22½ per cent.

Receiving, Rushing Titles to Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — In all the recorded history of professional football no one seems to have been so precocious as Ron Johnson of the New York Giants in handling the two Rs—rushing and receiving.

Johnson, acquired by the Giants from Cleveland in an off-season trade that sent Homer Jones to the Browns, has done so well in both facets of the sport that he could become the first player in NFL annals to win both the rushing and receiving titles.

League statistics released today show the 6-foot-1 205-pound second-year man from the University of Michigan is third in both categories in the National Conference; within nine yards of the rushing lead and within two catches of the receiving lead.

In rushing, Larry Brown of Washington has gained 738 yards, MacArthur Lane of St. Louis 732 and Johnson 729. In receiving, Charley Taylor of Washington has caught 40 passes, Dick Gordon of Chicago 39 and Johnson 38.

With his 429 yards receiving, Johnson has gained 1,158 yards, or more than one-third of the Giants' entire team total of 2,898, enough

Ali Huffs and Puffs, Calls Others Chumps

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — As the images of Joe Frazier and Bob Foster flashed across the giant closed circuit television screen, Muhammad Ali, ballooning his lips like a fighter wearing a mouthpiece, moved forward in his seat and threw a volley of swift punches into the air.

"Look at those chumps," he said under his breath, between punches. "Look at 'em punch away at each other. Got no style. Got no footwork. Got nothing except muscle. A scientific boxer tear 'em up. Just tear 'em to pieces."

The members of Ali's entourage, who sat with the fighter as he watched the fight in Atlanta's municipal auditorium, nodded their agreement. "Nothing," hissed Ali, throwing a roundhouse right in the dark and nearly striking the leather-jacketed man beside him. "They is nothing."

Ali was watching the title bout between Frazier, the champion, and Foster in the city in which he began his ring comeback last month by demolishing Jerry Quarry. Ali, who won the title as Cassius Clay and who lost it when he refused to be drafted, fights Oscar Bonavena in New York next month and is almost certain to take on Frazier early next year.

"Foster is faster than Frazier but ain't either one of 'em got anything to match my speed," said Ali, whose group included Drew Brown, his trainer.

Ali watched a brief preliminary bout with thinly veiled disdain for the style of the fighters. "Look at 'em—they stand there punching away at each other. Man punches at me, I get out of the way. Like a matador and the bull."

And then came the main event—Foster, a tall, rangy light heavyweight, and Frazier, tightly muscled and compact, moving inside the looping punches of Foster to take him apart with stabbing punches.

"They trying to dance like me," laughed Ali. "But I got the speed and the moves." Moments later, Foster was lying on the canvas and the ring announcer was saying that Frazier had retained his title. Ali, his face contorted with anger, jumped to his feet in the darkened auditorium and shouted over and over, "I want Joe Frazier!"

Ali's hands were blurs as he flailed at the air, smashing an imaginary opponent—Frazier. "You will meet me soon," yelled Ali. "We going to see who the heavyweight champion is now ... We going to find out ... I'm going to play with him—kill him ..."

By that time most of the fans in the auditorium had crowded around Ali's seat, watching him shout and throw punches. He shifted into a ring stance, showing his right leg back hard against his seat and knocking it from its moorings.

A man wearing a 4kt. gold sports jacket shouted at Ali that Frazier would be much tougher than Quarry. Ali whirled toward the voice and lunged toward the man. His trainer grasped him around the middle, pulling Ali back and laughing. Ali was not smiling.

Girl Scout Troop 356 held an Investiture Ceremony Friday, Nov. 13. The girls presented Colors and lighted candles as they said the Girl Scout Laws. Three new members were welcomed into the Troop. Divisional Title Battles Continue

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kentucky opened a 1½-game edge in the East and Indiana closed the gap to 1½ in the West as the divisional battles continued Wednesday night in the American Basketball Association.

The Colonels got a bit of breathing room in the fight to stay ahead of Virginia as they whipped Carolina 122-112 while the second-place Squires were ripped 127-115 by the Floridians.

And Indiana moved even closer to the idle front-running Utah Stars in the West as the Pacers clipped Denver 119-114.

In Wednesday night's only other ABA game—the first half of a twinbill in Jacksonville, Fla.—the Memphis Pros nipped Pittsburgh 114-111.

In National Basketball Association action, Philadelphia beat New York 113-106, San Francisco edged Boston 90-89, Chicago routed Cincinnati 128-107, Baltimore blitzed Cleveland 111-98, Portland crushed Atlanta 146-131 and Milwaukee bounced San Diego 117-111.

Dan Issel and Cincy Powell led the Kentucky attack with 28 points apiece. Carolina, with Joe Caldwell hitting 30 points to take scoring honors, led throughout most of the first half but the Colonels caught the Cougars in the second half and never looked back.

The Floridians got a 35-point burst from Larry Jones and easily held off a Virginia rally to win. The Squires trailed by 23 points in the third period before starting their futile climb back, led by Neal Johnson, who hit 12 of his 15 game points in the final quarter.

Indiana broke an 84-84 deadlock with Denver by scoring the first eight points of the fourth quarter in which Freddie Lewis of the Pacers hit 15 of his game-high 34 points. The Rockets, topped by Don Sidle and Larry Cannon with 27 apiece, never got closer than three points after that.

Memphis, with James Jones leading a balanced attack with 22 points, allowed Pittsburgh to tie the game 108-108 with less than three minutes to go before pulling it out. Mike Lewis of the Condors was high man for the night with 25 points.

Frank K. Perkins of Boston was for many years the dean of New England's bridge players and writers. He retired so completely a few years back that we made the mistake of referring to him as the late Frank Perkins. We are delighted to report that Frank is very much alive and looks as if he will be with us for many years.

Here is a hand from a 1943 article by Frank on the importance of spot cards.

West opened the king of hearts against South's four-spade contract. South noted that he had four potential losers in the red suits, but there was one ray of hope. If West could be persuaded to continue hearts, South's queen would set up for an eventual diamond discard.

So South dropped the five of hearts and prayed for help. It was a long time coming. West looked at his partner's four and at South's five. He looked at the ceiling and the floor. He communed with nature and finally played out his ace of hearts. After this bit of help, South was able to discard one of dummy's diamonds on the good heart and score his game.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The triggerfish is named for its mechanism of three dorsal fin spines. The World Almanac notes. When the fish is alarmed the first spine assumes an upright position, is locked by the second and both are released by depression of the third spine. This mechanism allows the fish to wedge itself firmly in a reef crevice when attacked.

Frank pointed out that West really shouldn't have played his heart ace. West could well have afforded a shift to a trump. On the other hand, West could not be sure of the location of the deuce of hearts. If his partner held that card, he had started an echo and West had a problem.

Suppose South had dropped the deuce instead of the five. Then West would have known that his partner had not echoed and surely would not have continued hearts.

VD? Trust Your Doctor To Help, Not Judge You

Dear Dr. Lamb—As a reader of your column I ask your help, for myself and others. Having reason to fear I might have venereal disease and knowing the worst of it unto death, I can't bring myself to seek medical attention for shame, all the personal questions and effect on others in my family. How can this lesson well-learned be handled discreetly? I am dying of shame.

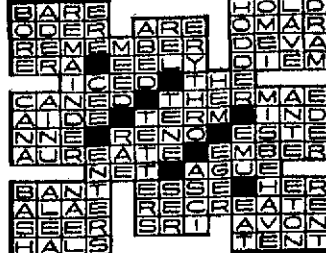

Dear Reader—It always makes me sad to read a letter like this. How much we all suffer from fear. So many people are so afraid of losing the love and respect of those closest to them that they can't even talk about their most important problems.

Man's tendency to hide himself and the loneliness he experiences because of it is taught how to prevent venereal disease, not lectured or made to feel guilty.

Cheer up, my down-hearted friend. You will feel better once you have talked to the doctor and you will be pleasantly surprised at how helpful he can be. He is there to help, not to judge.

The best treatment of fear and shame is knowledge and understanding.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a woman 41 years old and my hair has been thinning for about 10 years. It has completely disappeared from my arms, legs and eyebrows. I was told years ago I had an enlarged thyroid. Can this be related?

Dear Reader—Baldness in women is fairly common. About eight per cent of women have this problem. Usually, the common type occurs after menopause. Thyroid and other glandular disorders can cause loss of hair. Excess amounts of male hormone may cause baldness but it usually is associated with increased hair on the rest of the body. A person who has loss of hair all over the body in early life should see a skin specialist (dermatologist). In certain cases it will be necessary to see an endocrinologist (a gland specialist).

Flood Is Not Interested In Managing

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Curt Flood possesses a rare mixture of courage and intelligence, but he's not interested in becoming baseball's first black manager.

"That particular merry-go-round's not for me," says Flood. "Maybe for Frank Robinson, Henry Aaron or somebody, but not me."

Although fearing an establishment blackball over his suit against major league baseball, Flood is back in the game as a $100,000-a-year centerfielder for the Washington Senators.

Flood relaxed after a workout earlier in the week and discussed his career, personal life and goals with The Associated Press.

Q—You came off as somewhat of a self-made scholar during the court trials. Why then are you not interested in becoming a field manager in baseball?

A—I would like to think such a thing is possible. But, to face reality, I don't think baseball's owners would want me as a manager after the stand I took. I don't really want this, anyway. It's a thankless life. You take the brunt of everything. If the team loses, it's your fault and you'll probably eventually get fired.

Q—How did a year away from baseball leave you physically?

A—I feel very good. A little sore, a little tight, but the same as in previous spring trainings.

Q—What is your appraisal of your new team, the Senators?

A—Since I've been in the National League, I haven't seen much of Washington. I understand they have fine young ballplayers. The addition to Denny McLain to any pitching staff is a plus.

Q—What do you know about your new manager, Ted Williams, who joins you in having the reputation of being a rebel?

A—Not a lot, except that I followed his career when I was a youngster. He's such a scientist, I know he can help my hitting.

Q—About sitting out the 1970 season for the heretofore unsuccessful court trial, was it worth it?

A—I think so. If I had it to do over again, I would. It brought a lot of attention for not only the public, but from ballplayers who are saddled with similar problems. We are not lawyers and our player contracts are not easy documents for the layman to read. If a man can get more money with normal bargaining rights, that's what it's all about.

Q—Will history record you as Curt Flood-Outfielder or Curt Flood-baseball martyr?

A—I don't think I'm going to be a martyr. I have the opportunity to play baseball again and that is the most important thing. The reserve clause is in the courts being handled by my lawyers. I want to settle down and have a good year for the Senators. They have put a lot of faith in me and a lot is riding on my shoulders.

Q—Do you still have the zest for playing baseball, or is it strictly the chance to make a buck?

A—It's a combination of the two. I still get enthusiastic about baseball, and, after 12 years, that's saying quite a bit. I'm a professional 'thing.' I work and I do it for money. I do not think I would play baseball if they didn't pay me.

Q—Was money the main reason you returned?

A—I'd say that, yeah. After laying off a year and not making the big paydays I was accustomed to—and, taking some business reversals—it was an important factor.

Q—How is your personal life?

NBA Title Could Mean $16,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Players could make more than $16,000 apiece for winning a National Basketball Association title this year—almost double last season's figure.

The NBA's board of governors Wednesday approved a $700,000 playoff pool. Last year, it was $400,000.

The New York Knicks, enroute to their first world title last year, scooped $118,000 out of the kitty, or a little more than $9,000 a man.

If a team winds up with the best winning percentage, as the Knicks did, and goes on to take the title, then it will collect $212,000.

A team with the best overall winning percentage will get $20,000, plus $30,000 for having the best percentage in its two-division conference.

Winning teams in the first round of the playoffs will get $32,000, survivors of the semifinal playoffs will collect another $40,000 and the winners of the championship series will get $90,000.

The board of governors also set up the following playoff pairings for 1971:

First round, Eastern Conference, first place team Atlantic Division, vs. runner-up Central Division and first place team Central vs. runner-up Eastern, both best-of-7 series.

First round, Western Conference, first place team Midwest Division vs. runner-up Pacific Division and first place team Pacific vs. runner-up Midwest, both best-of-7.

nancial state?

A—Well, I'm not starving. So I guess it's all right.

Q—What is the nature of your business in Denmark, which has been so highly publicized?

A—It's simply a restaurant-lounge. It hasn't come about as rapidly as I hoped. Getting a liquor license is quite a problem. The Danes don't do anything in a hurry. Now that I'm back in baseball, I don't think it's going any farther than it has.

Q—Do you have any U.S. business interests?

A—No, only the Washington Senators.

Q—Did you ever feel like a man alone during the court trials?

A—That was the good part—I didn't feel that way. I felt the players were behind me about 99 per cent. I received a great deal of encouragement from my teammates and some warm letters from players elsewhere.

Q—Did the player support in general sustain you throughout?

A—Mostly. But, to be honest, it was both ways. Some fellows didn't agree with me and they have a right to their opinions as I do.

Q—Your main complaint was the trading of veteran players without even consulting the men involved. Do you believe baseball can truly afford such a practice?

A—Yes, I agree that baseball has an investment in their young players. They have to protect it. But, to control a man's entire life is not quite fair. Maybe after five, or x number of years, he should have some of the control himself.

More Facts About Your S. Security

By KEN HARGIS

If you have any questions regarding social security, I invite your letters. Just send them to Ken Hargis, Social Security Administration, P.O. Box 1319, Texarkana, Texas 75501.

QUESTION: I had my social security checks stopped this year because I am working. This job will be finished by the end of November, and my total earnings are already $6,000. Would I be eligible for any benefits before next year?

ANSWER: Yes. If you are neither working for wages of more than $140 a month nor rendering substantial services in self-employment, you will be entitled to your benefit beginning with December.

QUESTION: I plan to apply for my social security benefits at age 62. How much would my retirement payments be reduced? My wife is 65. Would her payments be reduced?

ANSWER: Retirement benefits, beginning at age 62, are reduced 20 per cent. Since your wife is 65, her payments would not be reduced.

QUESTION: My husband and I both work. If I should die, would my children receive benefits even though they would still have their father to support them?

ANSWER: Yes. Since you have worked under social security, your children will receive benefits until age 18 or until age 22 if they continue in school and do not marry.

QUESTION: I received a social security check and estimated that I would earn $2500 this year. I have been laid off and won't earn more than the $1680 limit. What should I do?

ANSWER: Visit or call your social security office and they will take the action necessary to change your original estimate.

QUESTION: I do domestic work in private households. I have been informed by my employer that the social security coverage is optional with domestic workers. Is this correct?

ANSWER: No, that is not correct. Social security is compulsory; however, there is a special rule for the payment of social security taxes on domestic work. If your employer pays you at least $50 cash wages in a calendar quarter, the social security taxes must be paid for that quarter.

Recipients of Welfare Get Their Chance

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare recipients got a chance to tell Congress their ideas on new welfare reform proposals and launched into a personal attack on several senators, as well as President Nixon and his dogs.

One woman claimed Wednesday President Nixon spends $2,700 yearly to feed and house his three dogs while the administration proposes $1,100 less as subsistence income for a family of four.

"I want to know who thought up $1,600 a year when Tricky Dick's dogs cost $2,700 a year," Roxanne Jones of Philadelphia asked a special Senate hearing on the administration's welfare

Head Start Cutback by 10,000 Seen

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's commitment to promote the welfare of preschool children, administration and congressional budget cutting may turn away an estimated 10,000 youngsters from the Head Start program.

With the House paring funds for the preschool program to $321 million, Dr. Edward F. Sigler, director of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Child Development, has told regional Head Start officials to plan for a money reduction averaging between 7 and 10 per cent for the fiscal year ending next June 21.

Head Start officials say a $321 million appropriation would result in at least 10,000 children being turned away from the program.

The fund cut "will mean different things in different communities," Sigler said in an interview. "In some it will mean cutting out lightly-attended programs, in others cutting back summer programs; and in some kicking children out of ongoing full-year programs that stretch over two years."

"The one thing I absolutely refuse to do, however, is sacrifice quality by offering reduced services to the same number of children," he said.

Head Start officials estimate $350 million is required to finance the education, nutrition, and health services now offered the 263,000 children in full year programs and 209,000 children in summer programs for the disadvantaged.

President Nixon—who promised in February 1969 "to provide all American children an opportunity for healthful and stimulating development during the first five years of life"—requested $339 million for Head Start.

The administration, however, did not ask Congress for more after it became clear $350 million was required to maintain the program at present levels.

And the House then cut the figure to $321 million.

The prospective cutback, however, has produced protests from parents and Head Start organizations, a last-minute legislative push in the Senate and an indefinite offer of help from HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson.

Led by New York Republican Jacob K. Javits, a group of senators hopes to boost the figure to $398 million.

reform package.

The White House said that the cost of feeding Nixon's dogs is absorbed in the President's personal budget.

The hearing presided over by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., was marked by frequent bursts of applause, shows of clenched fists and shouts of "Right on!"

Democratic Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Russell B. Long of Louisiana all came under attack after a University of Pennsylvania professor of welfare law said the administration's plan included a work incentive feature that would provide a pool of labor for "sweatshops"—laundries and toy manufacturers.

The professor, Edward V. sparer, also said the bill would reduce the income of families on welfare.

Long was criticized for allegedly complaining he had difficulty getting a shirt cleaned. Ribicoff was attacked for suggesting to Mayor John V. Lindsay that New York use welfare recipients to clean up the city's streets.

Another witness said the nation was confused if Eastland can be paid $220,000 a year not to plant crops while welfare recipients can't make ends meet with government funds.

Mrs. Johnny Tillmon, executive director of the WWRO attacked Congress as she argued for defeat of the administration proposal.

"The people put you there and they can remove you if you don't do your job," she said. "We know it's popular to say that welfare recipients bite the hand that feeds them."

"The point is," she said, "we know that if you don't have enough in that hand we bite it off."

McCarthy, in a prepared statement, said "the floor contained in the administration bill, $1,600 for a family of four, is not enough for subsistence, let alone an adequate standard of living."

An Expressway Costing $359 Million Would Edge Western Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An engineering report released Wednesday by the Ozarks Regional Commission estimated the cost of a 445-mile Ozarks toll expressway at $359 million.

The report was based on a study that allotted 188 miles of the route and $146 million of the cost to Arkansas.

The study was conducted by H. E. Bailey Engineering Co. of Oklahoma, Inc., and De Leuw Cather & Co., consulting engineers based in Oklahoma City, Okla.

A report on the study was referred last May 29 to the Ozarks Regional Commission, an organization set up to promote the economy of portions of four states.

The promotion is aimed at counties in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri that considered below the economic level of other parts of the respective states.

The north-south route would line Kansas City, Mo., with the Louisiana state line near Shreveport.

The study cost $27,000 and was financed by the commission.

A Missouri legislator, Rep. Robert E. Young, R-Carthage, called the effort "utter waste and nonsense."

Young heads the U.S. 71 group, which was set up to bring about improvements to the highway for which the group is named.

At one point, Young advocated a toll road to follow the U.S. 71 route, but since then the Missouri Highway Commission has concentrated on upgrading that highway to near interstate standards.

Young has turned against toll roads since the stronger development of U.S. 71.

He said E. L. "Bud" Stewart, chairman of the Ozarks Regional Commission, and some commission staff members in Oklahoma are in "cozy alliance with professional toll road promoters."

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, state co-chairman of the commission, said that the need for a major north-south road "has been obvious to me for a number of years."

"If we are ever to realize total economic development of the Ozarks portion of the country, we must have modern transportation facilities," he said.

But Hearnes added that he had "some ... reservations on the report," and he pointed out that the study has not yet been approved by the governors of the four states or by the commission's federal chairman at a formal commission meeting.

The proposed toll road would originate in Kansas at U.S. 69 about 20 miles south of Kansas City. Then the route would proceed south to 118 miles just west of the Kansas-Missouri state line, entering Oklahoma for a 37-mile stretch, then crossing into Arkansas for a 60-mile section, then passing through Oklahoma again near Stillwell, then re-entering Arkansas near Mena and proceeding south to Arkansas 29 near the Arkansas-Louisiana border.

The 60-mile north section of the proposed route in Arkansas is estimated to cost about $46,121,340 with the 128-mile south section to cost about $100,187,168.

The north section would link Arkansas with the Ozarks Toll Expressway proposed for Oklahoma just west of Gravette. The route would extend southward crossing these state and federal highways: Arkansas 72 east of Maysville, Arkansas 59 south of Gravette, Arkansas 102 east of Decatur, Arkansas 12 north of Highfill, Arkansas 68 east of Tontitown, Arkansas 16 west of Fayetteville, U.S. 62 west of Lincoln, Arkansas 65 east of Dutch Mills and Arkansas 59 north of Evansville. The route then would move into Oklahoma just north of Evansville.

The south section would begin west of Mena and extend southward crossing these state or federal highways: Arkansas 246 west of Hatfield, U.S. 71 south of Hatfield, Arkansas 246 and U.S. 71 at Vandervoort, U.S. 71 south of Gillham, Arkansas 380 west of King, U.S. 70 east of De Queen, Arkansas 24 east of Lockesburg, Arkansas 27N west of Ben Lomond, Arkansas 27 south of Ben Lomond, Arkansas 32 east of Ashdown, Arkansas 108 south of the Red River, Interstate 30 northeast of Texarkana, U.S. 82 east of Texarkana, Arkansas 196 southeast of Texarkana and then connect with Arkansas 134 and U.S. 71 south of Fouke.

The southward alignment from Fouke would be determined after a decision is made on the location of a proposed toll expressway in Louisiana.

The alignment used in the report continues southeast from Arkansas 134, crossing Arkansas 160 west of Bradley and terminating at a temporary connection with Arkansas 29 at the state line.

The report said the design standards assumed by the study were equal to or greater than the requirements for interstate highways.

Five toll plazas were proposed in the report, two on the northern section—near Gravette and near Lincoln—and three on the southern section—near Hatton, near Ashdown and near Texarkana.

Both federal and state legislation would be necessary to permit construction of the proposed four-state route.

WR's Public Relations Group to Stay

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — In May 1964 while preparing for his first race for governor, Winthrop Rockefeller hired newspaperman John Ward to handle his public relations.

The event marked the start of a public relations staff that has figured as an issue in two subsequent campaigns — during Rockefeller's 1968 race against Marion H. Crank and this year against Dale Bumpers.

Located in offices across the street from the state Capitol, Winthrop Rockefeller Public Relations has been routinely denounced by Democrats as the propaganda arm of the Rockefeller administration, despite the protestations of Ward.

Now that Rockefeller is leaving the governor's chair, questions have arisen about the future of the public relations office.

Ward, who heads the organization for Rockefeller, said in an interview that the office will continue to exist. He said there also is no plan to make major changes in the size of the basic staff, about 18 employees, according to him, in the "immediate future."

"That will be dictated to some extent by the various new projects the governor may wish to take in," Ward said.

"We're not going to exist for political reasons," he said. "The curious thing is that we have not existed solely for political reasons in the past."

He said the size of the staff could be reduced or increased, depending on what Rockefeller decides to do. Whether the office will be involved in efforts to rejuvenate the state Republican party after the GOP disaster at the polls in the general election depends on whether the party asks the office for help and whether the governor wants the staff to go ahead and give it, Ward said.

"The office has had little to do with party activities," Ward said. "The governor's (party) involvement has been directly with the party."

He said he could not visualize the office becoming deeply involved in party affairs in the future.

There have been charges that the movement to draft Rockefeller as state GOP chairman was a make-work scheme fathered by public relations employees to assure their continued employment, but Ward emphatically denies the accusations. He says the draft movement apparently was begun by Republicans in the 3rd Congressional District.

"We haven't been involved in his affairs as national committeeman and the same philosophy would apply to state party affairs," Ward said.

"The party is independent of the public relations office and will continue to be."

Ward said another report, that the office would begin to accept work from the public, was not true. He said "PR," as it is known around the Capitol, would continue to serve only Rockefeller.

During the governor's two terms, PR has been more closely identified publicly with Rockefeller's political activities than with other affairs. Ward, 39, formerly a reporter with the Arkansas Democrat in Little Rock, said its political involvement had been exaggerated.

"It is a service as much as it is a policy maker," Ward said. "It developed to a large extent after the governor took office (in 1967) to fill in the gaps he saw in the governor's office of a public relations nature."

Ward said PR gave top priority to assisting Rockefeller in his role as governor. In addition, he said, it provides services to Rockefeller in connection with his business interests, such as Winrock Farms and Winrock Enterprises, and his philanthropic activities. The office also assists Mrs. Rockefeller.

"Out there, people look on this as a political operation when in fact it isn't," Ward said.

He said, however, that PR had been called on to advise Rockefeller's campaign organizations on advertising and public relations.

"We are consulted about campaign policy because policy involves public relations and advertising," Ward said.

He also said PR had been involved in the "treatment" of campaign issues and had supplied the Rockefeller campaign organizations with research material. He said PR had been responsible for "creative input" in the campaigns, but that it billed the campaign organization for its services.

Ward said that in the past campaign the campaign had hired its own public relations and advertising firm, the Leavitt agency, to handle ad placement and some creative input.

Bob Goodman of the Baltimore firm that helped elect Vice President Spiro T. Agnew governor of Maryland contracted with Leavitt to provide the "Arkansas Country" campaign music.

Ward said that while Goodman also provided on a speculative basis some television and radio commercials, "two or three" of which were used, the great bulk of the television material was prepared by Shelby Storck & Co. of St. Louis, the firm that has handled Rockefeller's campaign accounts since 1966. The firm is now known as Confluence Films Inc. of St. Louis.

Ward said the campaign organizations had been completely separate from the public relations staff. When he served as the governor's campaign director in 1968, Ward said, he moved out of the public relations office because Rockefeller felt strongly that PR should not be involved in day-to-day campaign operations.

Earlier this year before the elections, it was reported that Rockefeller threatened to fire the PR staff because it was concentrating more on the campaign than on his role as governor.

"We were acting in response to the campaign organization to get more deeply involved in the day-to-day activities of the campaign than we probably should have," Ward said.

"After the governor pointed out to me we should spend more time on serving his role as governor, we shifted our direction."

Although Ward minimizes PR's role in Rockefeller's political activities, he is regarded as one of the governor's closest advisers.

Employees of the public relations office talk of an "inner circle" that includes Ward and two not connected with PR, Robert W. Faulkner, the governor's executive secretary, and Marion Burton, Rockefeller's legal adviser and campaign director in the race against Bumpers.

Others who may be in the circle are Chalmers Allbright, Rockefeller's speech writer, and Bob Fisher, associate director of public relations who also helps Ward manage Rockefeller's Graphic Communications firm, an offset printing and data processing company.

Graphic Communications handles Rockefeller's private and political computer business. It, like the public relations office, also has performed services for Republican candidates outside Arkansas, Ward said.

Ward said PR had done consultant work free for GOP candidates in other states.

While public relations is a private organization serving

Rockefeller's interests, Graphic Communications is a commercial enterprise and a profitable one, Ward said.

He said the public relations office grew out of Rockefeller's desire for a "central public information office."

"Since the state had not appropriated the money to create such an office, he developed one himself," Ward said.

"Much of the work we do is his gift to state government... We consult with anyone in state government who wants to talk to us about anything we can help with. At one time or another, this office has communicated freely with just about every agency of government to coordinate mainly in the area of public relations between the governor's office and the state agencies."

Among its activities in support of Rockefeller, he said, were PR's help in meetings of the National Governor's Conference, the Republican Governor's Conference and the Southern Governor's Conference. Rockefeller is on the executive committee of the National Governor's Conference and is immediate past chairman of the Southern governors.

Scientists Want Senate Bill Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 750 top scientists including six Nobel Prize winners are urging the Senate to kill a defense facilities and industrial security proposal they say is "a bill of horrors."

The scientists from 138 universities, medical schools, hospitals and research institutions in 35 states and Washington, D.C., signed a petition "against what they see as a threat to their work in the laboratories," a spokesman said.

A delegation arranged a meeting with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., today to present the petition opposing the House-passed bill, which would apply to campus research on classified military projects.

Petition signers include Nobel laureates Hans Bethe, Arthur Kornberg, Salvador Luria, Linus Pauling, Albert Szent-Gyorgyi and George Wald, plus presidential scientific advisers Jerome Wiesner and Jerrold Zacharias of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and George Kistiakowski of Harvard, the spokesman said.

Backers of the legislation, which cleared the House 274 to 65 last January, call it an effective means of balancing an individual's interests against the nation's security interests.

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, says it would bar subversives from sensitive positions in defense facilities and from obtaining classified information.

Kennedy agrees with the scientists' views and called the bill unnecessary, unwise and almost certainly unconstitutional.

He said it gives the president and secretary of defense power to designate virtually any institution a defense facility and to investigate any person connected with that institution.

Other opponents say the bill is a serious threat to personal liberties and an attempt to overcome eight Supreme Court decisions on civil rights.

Relief Lags, Thousands in Danger

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
Dacca, East Pakistan (AP) — The delivery of relief supplies to stricken areas of East Pakistan gets a small boost today with air drops from one plane and the arrival of six U.S. helicopters. But the operation is lagging badly because of the absence of Pakistani air force helicopters.

Anisuzzaman told a news conference Wednesday that many thousands of survivors of the cyclone and tidal waves that struck Friday are still in grave danger because they have not received help. He said there are still "very inaccessible places with which we have not yet had contact."

The Pakistani air force has some helicopters, but most are in West Pakistan and would have to cross hostile India. Three times during the news conference Anisuzzaman refused to answer questions about the failure of the military to provide more aircraft.

Other relief officials said there also had been a delay in the arrival of U.S. helicopters because the Pakistani government tried to specify that its pilots fly them. When the United States refused, the Pakistanis backed down.

Two American helicopters were due today from Nepal. Four others expected tonight will not be ready to fly again before Saturday. Britain also is sending two helicopters.

Otherwise Anisuzzaman's air force consists of a military C130 Hercules freighter which was to start drops today, one military helicopter which had to be grounded for maintenance after 14 hours aloft, one short-takeoff-and-landing plane, and the only seaplane in East Pakistan.

The air is the only feasible avenue for delivery of supplies to many of the stricken areas of the Bay of Bengal coast and the islands at the mouth of the Ganges River because all normal transport facilities were swept away by the winds and waves. Helicopters are particularly needed because many sections are still flooded, and drops from fixed-wing planes probably would miss the dry spots and be lost in the water.

Anisuzzaman said the official death toll now stands at 39,000, with 3,136 missing, but this "may shoot up like anything." The government announced several days ago an official figure of 55,000 dead, and unofficial estimates range from 300,000 to 650,000.

Cotton Taking a Beating in South

By RANDOLPH SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Way down South the land of cotton is now a land of mud, mire and frustration for farmers.

Throughout the large mid-South cotton belt along the Mississippi River, rains this fall have prevented harvesting. Cotton stands in the fields losing quality day by day as farmers, unable to urge their giant picking machines through the soaked fields, lose money.

The loss in quality will cost farmers between $5 a bale in North Louisiana and $10 a bale in some parts of West Tennessee, depending on the degree of deterioration.

"I think some of these farmers are getting a little desperate," said Eugene R. McInnis, head of the Little Rock, Ark., cotton classing office of the Department of Agriculture.

"The fields are still pretty wet, but they're going out there and getting it anyway. The machines sink into the mud, but the farmers are still trying," he said.

Only a little more than half of this year's crop has been picked in the Mississippi Delta area, according to Dick Slay of the Greenwood, Miss., cotton office. Slay said that at this time last year the harvesting was nearly finished.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. G. W. Turner Jr. of Pine Bluff said Wednesday he was "surprised" at remarks made by Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver concerning a request for a State Police investigation into the Nov. 2 inmate uprising at Cummins Prison Farm.

The Arkansas Legislative Council Wednesday adopted a resolution by Turner asking that information obtained in the probe be turned over to the prosecutor's office in Lincoln County so that "appropriate criminal actions" could be brought.

The council members were unhappy that Sarver has taken no disciplinary or legal action against inmates who seized two civilian guards and two trustys and held them hostage in the Cummins isolation unit in an attempt to bargain their freedom.

Turner's resolution said "a very dangerous situation" existed at the prison.

From Norman, Okla., where he was to lecture today at the University of Oklahoma, Sarver issued a statement saying that

$155 Million for Cambodia Brings Debate

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Congress to supply swiftly $155 million in military and economic aid to Cambodia, a proposal likely to rekindle Senate debate about his policy in Southeast Asia.

The funds for Cambodia, and $65 million for South Vietnam, were part of a $1-billion boost in foreign aid that Nixon asked Congress to enact this year.

About half the total, some $500 million, would go to help Israel build her military strength.

But even Republicans acknowledged it might be difficult, despite "urgent needs" Nixon cited in his special aid message, to win enactment of the package during the current, lame-duck session of Congress.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, said he had some doubts that action would come this year.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and a leading critic of Southeast Asian policies, wouldn't guess at a timetable.

Nixon briefed Senate leaders on his proposal at the White House Wednesday. At a separate background briefing for
